

Ewa Werchola

ewerch1@uic.edu

Education

2002 - Present - University of Illinois at Chicago

Pursuing Ph.D. Degree in Economics Department (dissertation proposal accepted)
Dissertation Topic: Macroeconomic Effects of Foreign Direct Investment Inflows on the Host Country.
M.A. Degree in Economics in Spring 2004

1997-2002 - Karol Adamiecki University of Economics in Katowice, Poland

Masters Degree in Economics
Master Thesis: American Direct Investments in Poland

Fields of Interest

Primary Fields: Macroeconomics and International Economics

Secondary Fields: Labor Economics and Applied Microeconometrics

Work Experience

Research Assistant at Institute for Health Research and Policy, UIC

Working with a collection of anti-smoking television commercials produced by state health departments, federal agencies, and professional organizations, conducting research on smokeless tobacco products

Teaching position at University of Illinois at Chicago and at Write College

Lectures in Principles of Macroeconomics and Intermediate Microeconomics

Teaching Assistant at UIC - Econometrics, Microeconomics

Honors and Awards

2008 Provost's Award for Graduate Research, Graduate College, UIC
2006 -2007 Kosciuszko Foundation Scholarship
2006-2009 Teaching/Research Assistantship and tuition waiver at UIC

Software Proficiencies

Excel, STATA (highly proficient: data management and statistical analysis)

SAS (moderately proficient: data management)

Conferences

Presenter at the Midwestern Economics Association, March, 2008, Chicago, IL
Discussant at the Midwestern Economics Association, March, 2008, Chicago, IL
Attendee: Illinois Economics Association (IEA), 2003 -2008 Chicago, IL
American Economic Association- 2008, 2009